THE SENTINEL.

Thursday, January 3, 1867.

Mr. Thad. Stevens' Bill.

The bill, given below, Mr. Stevens presented to Congress last session. He has amended it as follows, and willi bring it forward at an early day. This is not the Holden-Pool-&c. bill, but one that Mr. Stevens prefers to it:

A bill to enable the States lately in rebellion to regain their privileges in the Union.

Whereas, The eleven States, which lately formed the Government called the "Confederate States of America," have forfeited all their rights under the Constitution, and can be reinstated in the same only through the action of Congress; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the eleven States lately in rebellion, except Tennessee, may form valid State Governments in the following manner:

SECTION 2. And be it further enacted, That the State Governments now existing de facto, though illegally formed in the midst of martial law, and in many instances the constitutions were adopted under duress, and not submitted to the ratification of the people, and therefore are not to be treated as free republics, yet they are hereby acknowledged as valid governments for municipal purposes until the same shall be duly altered, and their legislative and executive officers shall be recognized as such.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the ten States which were lately in rebellion, and have not been admitted to representation in Congress, shall hold elections on the first Tuesday of May, 1867, to choose delegates to a Convention to form a State Government. The Convention shall consist of the same number of members as the most numerous branch of the Legislature of said State before the Rebellion. It shall meet at the former capital of said State on the first Monday of June of said year, at 12 o'clock noon, with power to adjourn from time to time, and shall proceed to form a State Constitution, which shall be submitted to the people at such time as the Convention shall direct, and if ratified by a majority of legal votes shall be declared the Constitution of the State. Congress shall elect a Commission for each of said States, to consist of three persons, who shall select or direct the mode of selecting the election of officers for the several election districts, which districts shall be the same as before the Rebellion, unless allotted by said Commission. The officers shall consist of one judge and two inspectors of elections and two clerks. The said officers, together with all the expenses of the election shall, be paid by the United States, and said expenses shall be repaid by said State or Territory. Each of said officers shall receive $5 per day for the time actually employed. Each of the members of said Commission shall receive $3,000 per annum, and their clerks $2,000. The Commission shall procure all the necessary books, stationery and boxes, and to make all regulations to effect the objects of this act. The President of the United States and the military commander of the district shall furnish so much military aid as the said Commissioners shall deem necessary to protect the polls and keep the peace at each of the election districts. If, by any means, no elections should be held in any of said late States on the day herein fixed, then said election shall be held on the third Monday of May, 1867, in the manner herein prescribed. Returns of all such elections shall be made to the said Commissioners, whose certificates of election shall be prima facie evidence of the fact.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That persons who shall be entitled to vote at both of said elections shall be as follows: All male citizens above the age of 21 years, who have resided one year in said State and ten days within the election district.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the word citizen, as used in this act, shall be construed to mean all persons (except Indians not taxed) born in the United States, or duly naturalized. Any male citizen above the age of 21 years shall be competent to be elected to act as delegate to said Convention.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That all persons who, on the 4th day of March, 1864, were of full age, who held office, either civil or military, under the government called the "Confederate States of America," or who voluntarily swore allegiance to said government, are hereby declared to have forfeited their citizenship and to have renounced allegiance to the United States, and shall not be entitled to exercise the elective franchise or hold office until five years after they shall have filed their intention or desire to be reinvested with the right of citizenship, and shall swear allegiance to the United States and renounce allegiance to all other governments or pretended governments; the said application to be filed and oath taken in the same courts that by law are authorized to naturalize foreigners. Provided, however, that on taking the following oath the party, being otherwise qualified, shall be allowed to vote and hold office:

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear, on the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, that on the 4th day of March, 1864, and at all times thereafter, I would willingly have complied with the requirements of the Proclamation of the President of the United States, issued on the 8th day of December, 1863, had a safe opportunity of so doing been allowed; and that on the said 4th, of March, 1864, and all times thereafter, I was opposed to the continuance of the rebellion, and to the establishment of the so-called Confederate Government, and voluntarily gave no aid and comfort thereto, but earnestly desired the success of the Union and the suppression of all armed resistance to the Government of the United States; and that I will henceforth faithfully support the Constitution of the United States and the Union of the States thereunder."

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That no Constitution shall be presented to or acted on by Congress which denies to any citizen any rights, privileges or immunities which are granted to any other citizen in the State. All laws shall be impartial without regard to language, race or former condition. If the provisions of this section should ever be altered, repealed, expunged, or in any way abrogated, this act shall become void, and said State lose its right to be represented in Congress.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That whenever the foregoing conditions shall be complied with, the citizens of said State may present said Constitution to Congress, and if the same shall be approved by Congress, said State shall be declared entitled to the rights, privileges and immunities, and be subject to all the obligations and liabilities of a State within the Union. No Senator or Representative shall be admitted into either House of Congress until Congress shall have declared the State entitled thereto.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, SEATON GALES, Editors.

Thursday Evening, Jan. 3, 1867.

Mr. Stevens' Bill.

We place on our first page, to day, the bill of Mr. Stevens, introduced by him, at the last session of Congress, now somewhat modified, in the stead of publishing the Holden-Pool, &c., bill—a bill from which the public will probably hear nothing from the committee on Territories, the bill of Mr. Stevens, or one something similar, taking the place of it. Mr. Stevens, it will be seen, has incorporated into his bill the oath from the Holden-Pool, &c., bill. In other respects it differs.

This bill embodies all of Mr. Stevens' peculiar views of reconstruction and negro suffrage, and the doctrines contained in the first section of the Howard amendment. It, however, discards the idea of the Southern States being "districts,"—a purely Holden-Pool idea. It sets out with the declaration that they are States, having forfeited their rights under the Constitution and can only be restored by the Congress; yet in subsequent articles proceeds wholly upon the idea, that their rebellion reduced them to the condition of territories, and that they are, in fact, conquered territories. No sound minded American citizen who at all appreciates the character of the U. S. government, and has any correct conception of its Constitution, can read the bill without astonishment at the demoralization which has taken possession of those, who can for a moment give it their sanction, either North or South.

The bill provides for the continuance of the de facto governments now existing in the States, and, strange to say, legalizes their action—governments, however, declared by Mr. Stevens to be invalid and wholly unauthorized, and declared by Mr. Holden to be disloyal and without civil government. Congress, in the estimation of such persons, must possess an awful power—powers never before claimed by any representative body on earth, and wholly destructive of Republican government. If States at all, can any power in the government, except the enfranchised citizens of the States, change their organic laws? Has Congress the right, an iota of right, to dictate what changes shall be made in the organic law? Where is the right? But admit that the citizens of those States disfranchised themselves by "rebellion," and admit, for the sake of argument, that the President's plan of restoration was imperfect, can any sane man doubt that his proclamation of pardon and amnesty restored the franchises of every pardoned citizen? Certainly not.

After providing for the call of a State Convention, and the election of delegates under the management of three well paid Commissioners, the bill proceeds to define who shall vote and hold office. This abandons totally the idea of the existence of a U. S. Constitution and of Republican institutions. When Congress assumes to decree who shall be citizens of States and who are entitled to suffrage, should this assumption prevail, there is an end of the Federative principle in the government, and the next step will be to destroy State boundaries and concentrate all power in the hands of a perpetual Congress. The form of election may continue for a while, but the power of the people is gone and the government becomes a despotism.

It will be seen that all male persons without regard to color, who are 21 years of age, residents of the States or naturalized, who can take the oath prescribed, shall be entitled to vote or be delegates to the Convention. The Constitution formed by this Convention shall be ratified by the voters, but must be submitted for the approval of Congress, provided it gives full equality of rights and privileges to all classes and colors, forever. This feature must be unchangable, otherwise Congress reserves the power to quash the State. This feature must be a discovery of Mr. Stevens' alone. It is unlike anything in the heavens above, on the earth beneath, or in the waters under the earth; it may be like something in the regions of Pandemonium.

Mr. Holden endorses this bill, and seems to prefer it to his own bantling. Remember, it not only disfranchises every white man in the South who held civil or military office, however insignificant, or in any wise sympathized with the Confederate government after the 4th of March 1864, but it allows all other persons, of whatever color, except untaxed Indians, 21 years of age and citizens, who can take the oath, to vote, hold any office, Governor, U. S. Senator or Representative, member of the Legislature, Judge, Solicitor, Magistrate or any other office, either Federal or State. We shall then have, we suppose, Mr. Holden's idea of a perfectly loyal civil government, the very quintescence of Republican government. He will then have attained the height of his ambition, when he can exclaim:

"I am monarch of all I survey,
My right there is none to dispute."

Could such a state of things exist, we believe he would be doomed to disappointment. Mr. Holden is known well by many of the respectable colored people of North Carolina. Alas! for his ambition they know him too well. They are not ignorant of his extreme selfishness, and his utter indifference to the claims of others, when his own ends are to be promoted. They cannot forget how bitter have been his denunciations of abolitionists, how violent his language was in regard to Mr. Lincoln's emancipation proclamation. They cannot forget other things now too tedious to mention. We say our colored people cannot forget these things, and they cannot confide in the man. Moreover, when Mr. Stevens sees his record since the 4th. of March, 1864, even Mr. S. must give him up.

We have seen hotter times than these. The writer of this has iron in his blood.—Standard.

Yes, and so has even every cowardly scamp in the land. If you had nothing worse, there might be some hope for the peace and quiet of the State.

Mr. Pool and the Standard.

After a long silence, Mr. John Pool appears in the Standard before the last, in the form of an editorial defence by the editor. The apologetic character of the article indicates the part borne by Mr. P. in that defence. We have been in doubt whether to notice Mr. Pool further.—The part he is now playing, in his efforts to territorialize the State, and place her people under the despotic rule of a few unworthy white people like himself, and the negroes, can alone render it necessary.

A sense of public duty alone to the people of the State, growing out of the effort he was making, pending the election of U. S. Senator in the Legislature, to mislead good men and thus secure his re-election, prompted us to expose his conduct. His merited defeat was aided by it, and we are satisfied.

There has been no venom or vindictiveness in the Sentinel or its editors, towards Mr. P., in what we have done. We knew nothing of Mr. Pool's vindictiveness against the Senior, nor of his threats to be avenged of the Legislature, if defeated, until after we had had our say.—Nor would a knowledge of either have had any influence upon our course.

Mr. Pool, in our judgment, had rendered him if totally unfit for the high office of Senator, by the shameless statements he had authorized Senator Doolittle to make for him, and his tacit acknowledgement and the admission of the Standard that he had done so. No public man in North Carolina had ever before so outraged the public confidence, excepting always his friend and confrere, W. W. Holden, and, in our estimation, it was an insult to the morality and honorable bearing of the Legislature to have asked a re-election, after what had transpired.

With such a record as his was during the war, for him to have authorized an honorable member of the U. S. Senate to state in his behalf before the Senate, that he had been a uniformly consistent Union man during the entire war, could take the test-oath but for a technicality, and had, more than all, accepted the position of Senator in the North Carolina Legislature, for the purpose of embarrassing the Confederate government, when he knew that he had taken a solemn oath to support and defend the Constitution of the Confederate States,—what more could be expected of any gentlemen in North Carolina, after that, but opposition to his pretensions?

We have said the defence of the Standard is apologetic. It is purely so. There is not a word in the article, germane to a real vindication. It is sheer apology, and abuse of the Sentinel, with the exception of the simple denial that Mr. Pool desired or applied for the position of Brigadier General in the Confederate army. We never laid much stress upon that point, only having stated it as a report or rumor.

As to the vindictiveness of the Standard or Mr. Pool against the Senior editor, we advise them both to save their powder, until they regain the confidence of the people of North Carolina, who know well how to appreciate them, and who know equally well the Senior editor of the Sentinel.

Impeachment of the President.

Our telegraphic dispatches, to day, announce that articles of impeachment are really to be preferred against the President, at an early day; that the President has been notified of the fact; and that he has declared himself fully ready for the issue.

We had not supposed that Radical insanity would go to such an extreme, but we are glad that it has taken this turn. If we are not greatly mistaken, such a proceeding as the one contemplated will produce an earlier and more thorough re-action throughout the country than we could have hoped for. When Andrew Johnson says that he is "ready," he means everything that can be comprehended in that word.

We await further developments with profound interest.

THE Old North State, speaking of the efforts of traitors to destroy the existing State government, says very justly:

"Whether that faction succeeds or fails in its conspiracy to overthow the present State Government, and acquire power at the expense of the great body of the people of the State, it will become equally odious and contemptible."

State Amnesty.

The Legislature of North Carolina has passed a bill granting pardons to soldiers in the rebel and Union armies for offences against the criminal laws while under military rule.

It would be much to the credit of all the Southern States to pursue a like course where actions are pending in the courts, either against soldiers of the Federal or Confederate armies. Though the South has no cause to love those persons in her midst who have been guilty, under sanction of military rule, of violating the statute laws of the land, yet we see no good result from prosecuting such individuals; but we rather fear evil will be the consequence of establishing the precedent that soldiers under command of their superiors in time of war are responsible to the civil authorities for the belligerent acts that may be committed. It has always been the custom of nations after such wars as the one which we have just passed, and in which the basest passions of man are excited to an unusual pitch, to grant a general amnesty for all acts committed under the color of military authority. Unless the States of the South have sufficient magnanimty to pursue this course, these neighborhood bickerings which embitter all the sources of social life will continue to mar the peace of our people, and to retard their material prosperity. It is not a matter of surprise that the Legislature of Tennessee has taken no such action, but it does appear to us rather remarkable thatsome of our neighboring States, who are blessed with a republican form of government, do not honor themselves by passing an act of general amnesty to all her people, whether engaged upon one side or the other. While there has been no legislative action of this nature in this State, our courts have persistently held that acts committed under color of military authority cannot be punished in times of peace.—[Memphis Appeal.]

For the Sentinel.

"But of this be assured, that whoever is King I shall be Vicar of Bray, sir."—The Trimmer.

"Better to reign in Hell, than serve in Heaven."—Satan.

In one of the old thirteen States there lived a very small man with a very large ambition.—This ambition assumed the form of a strong assurance that he was born to be great—in short that the Fates had ordained that he was to be a live Governor. This was laughed at by the people, and regarded as only a harmless hallucination, which hurt nobody, while it greatly delighted the small man with the large ambition. His absurd claim was first urged at a gathering of the people at the city of Charlotte, who were assembled there to select from among the statesmen their best man to rule.—They did not, of course, select the small man with large ambition, and sent him home growling, and with a large flea in his ear. This defeat threw him into a tempest of passion, and his voice was then for war. He determined to brew an horrible tempest throughout the dominion—hoping that, in the burly-burly, he might rise among other light things to the surface, and thus realize his large ambition. The war came—but not his turn to be Governor. No matter, he could afford to bide his time. He felt that he was born to be a Governor—and a Governor he was obliged to be—before long.—That man from the mountains might have it this term. But he must make the most of it.—The next term would surely belong to the small man with the large ambition. He would wait no longer. So he pitched into the man Zebulon, and was sure he would beat him 10,000; if not 20,000 votes. The result was not quite what he expected. Zebulon beat him some 35,000. Those who are gifted with smaller ambition might have regarded this as a sockdolager.—Not so with him; who felt himself born to be great, to be Governor. He had only to change his tactics, turn his coat, enlarge his galligaskins and go it again. He now confessed that his thoughts were turned on peace.—He joined the Quakers and cried lustily for peace! peace! He wanted "peace with independence," as he explained it, when pushed to the wall. But peace was the word. Athletic young men took to the bushes to avoid the army. This was peace. Deserters came home by thousands. That also was peace. The skulks and deserters received great aid and comfort from the small man with the large ambition. They were of a kidney—all slept together, and consoled each other most tenderly. They quoted scripture and prayed together, for they were very pious then. Their piety was periodical indeed, and somewhat spasmodical, but while it lasted was very sincere.

At last peace came—and such a peace! At last the small man, &c., became a Governor—and such a Governor! Himself was not satisfied with this sort of Governorship. So after stocking the cards for twelve months or so, turning out every old State officer and putting in others to suit himself, and being surrounded by an army on which he thought he could rely, or at least use in terrorem if necessary, he proclaimed that the time had come to make himself a sure-enough Governor by the voice of the people. Everything was O. K. The people were no longer rebellious. Their love for the Union was sincere and indubitable, and he was ready to be their Governor, in the good old fashion, by the voice of the people, and their—his name would be Simeon. But horror of horrors! the people could be neither scared nor coaxed into the support of the small man, &c., for whom they never, in all his glory, had the least respect, and in whom, during all his life, they never had the least confidence. An unpretending, unambitious, quiet Quaker, an eminent and always consistent peace man, beat him so far that he did not know his own name.—Now came the tug of war again. The small man swelled with rage, foamed at the mouth, and has been snarling and snapping at each he deemed his foe, ever since. Hydrophobia is a baby to his canine madness. He affects to believe that our quiet people are as mad as himself. He is mistaken. They care nothing for him, and but little for any of his miserable schemes. Their thoughts are for bread. That is all they ask at present, with the modest hope that what they work for will not come in the shape of a stone. Above all, they do not ask for more dirt, nor to be allowed the privilege of crawling around the feet of those who have spurned and kicked them away.

Shakspear had almost a wizard knowledge of the human heart. He has never been deemed a prophet, though some scenes in his Tempest would almost warrant the belief that he "is also among the prophets." Caliban was once Provisional Governor of an Island, under Sycorax. Prospero had somehow beaten him for Governor, or at least there was a disputed sovereignty between them. Prospero was a gentleman; Caliban was not.

Prospero. Thou poisonous slave, got by the Devil himself upon thy wicked dam, come forth.

Caliban.—"As wicked dew as e'er my mother brush'd

Could not abide to be with; therefore wast thou
Deservedly confined into this rock,
Who hadst deserved more than a prison.

ACT II. SEC. II.

Enter Caliban and Trinculo, with a bottle.

(The small man is requested not to write his own name for Caliban's, nor Thaddeus for Trinculo, though he may see some propriety in making these changes.)

Caliban. Hast thou not dropped from Heaven?

Trinculo. Out o' the moon, I do assure thee:
I was the man in the moon, when time was.

Caliban. I have seen thee in her, and I do adore thee. * * *

Trinculo. Come 'swear to that; kiss the book: (Cal. drinks) I will furnish it anon with new contents: swear. * * *

Caliban. I'll show thee every fertile inch o' the Island:
And I will kiss thy foot: I prithee, be my God!
I'll kiss thy foot; I'll swear myself thy subject.

Trinculo. (Aside.) I shall laugh myself to death at this puppy-headed monster: I could find in my heart to beat him.—

Come, kiss.

Caliban. I'll show thee the best springs; I'll pluck thee berries;
I'll fish for thee, and get thee wood enough.
A plague upon the tyrant that I serve! (A. J.?)
I'll bear him no more sticks, but follow thee,
Thou wondrous man!

THE SENTINEL.

Thursday Evening, Jan. 3, 1867.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Furman & Newby, Proprietors of the Henderson "Index," desire to secure the services of a good compositor.

Branson and Farrar offer an interest in their North Carolina Bookstore, &c., for sale. Here is a good chance for investment.

W. Harper, Pink Hill, Lenoir Co., offers $50 for the recovery of a stolen mare.

Geo. T. Cooke announces new and important arrivals.

SALT.—A good article of Salt is needed now by our people. Our advertising columns show that our friend, A. A. Willard, Esq., of Wilmington, keeps a large quantity of an excellent article constantly on hand.

THE COLORED CELEBRATION.—On the 1st of January, Mr. Holden addressed the colored people at the African Church in this city for about two hours. A correspondent of the Standard speaks highly of the speech, and states that, at its close, Mr. Holden offered the following resolution, which was enthusiastically adopted:

Resolved, By one thousand people here assembled, That we earnestly appeal to the Congress of the United States to re-organize the government of North Carolina on the basis of loyal white and black suffrage.

The procession was not as large as we expected, owing, no doubt, to the bad weather. The Church, we have no doubt, was filled, but Mr. Holden, we think, made a slight mistake as to the number present. We insert Mr. Holden's resolution, to put him on the record. If that resolution should be complied with, the effect of it would be, according to Mr. Stevens' plan, endorsed by Mr. Holden, to enfranchise about 45,000 colored voters and from 5 to 10,000 white voters, while it would disfranchise about 80,000 white voters.

THE WEATHER.—We have seldom seen such a spell of weather. Sleet, ice and snow and a beclouded sky have been our lot for a week. Bipeds and quadrupeds have scarcely been able to keep their feet. It is now snowing more rapidly than we have seen it this winter.

REMOVALS.—Parties who have been compelled to remove, during the present sleet and bad weather, have had a hard time of it. This, of itself, is sufficient to change the time of renting out from Jan. 1st. to 1st. of May. Will not the owners of property try to effect the change?

Among the changes effected, we are glad to notice the fact, that the proprietors of Hotels and Boarding Houses still retain their old stands. So do all the printing offices, except the Progress, which now occupies the City Hall over the market. Also, the Book Stores, Drug Stores and the Bank and Broker office, as well as our merchants generally, may be found at their former stands.

THE GRISWOLD PROPERTY.—This fine Hotel in Goldsboro, without furniture, was sold, on the first of January, at $31,500, in gold. The purchaser was Mr. Jno. Murphy, of Wayne County. The Hotel will be kept up. We also learn that the brick store belonging to the estate of the late W. D. Cobb sold for about $3,500 in gold.

REV. M. A. CURTIS, D. D., of Hillsboro, will deliver a Lecture before the Library Association of Wilmington, on the evening of the 10th. inst. Subject: "Self-Culture."

WORKING HANDS.—We regret to learn that the farmers of Wayne, and other Counties, find it very difficult to induce the freedmen to make contracts for farm work for the present year.—Such a course of conduct may be attributed, in a great measure, to the disposition of some few whites and blacks to keep our colored people stirred up on the subject of politics, and their future status. Instead of $30,000,000 appropriated for the Freedmen's Bureau, it will require $100,000,000 to feed and clothe the suffering freedmen, if this state of things becomes general in the South.

Wiggins was one day with a friend, when he observed a poor dog that had been killed lying in the gutter. Wiggins paused, gazed at the dead animal, and at last said, "Here is another shipwreck." "Shipwreck! Where?" "There's a bark that's lost forever." His companion growled and passed on.

The Springfield Republican thinks this reconstruction business is becoming fast run into the ground, and asks: "Why not reconstruct all the States in a lump that do not allow negroes to vote? Or, more to the purpose, abolish State Governments altogether?"

FUNERAL NOTICE.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. RUFFIN TUCKER will take place at the Episcopal Methodist Church, at 11 o'clock, Friday 4th. January, 1867.

Her relations and friends, and those of her sons, are respectfully invited to attend.

Our Thursday Morning Dispatches.

Impeachment of the President,—The Sherman-Campbell Mission,—Secret Mission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2, P. M.

There is good authority for saying that a Bill impeaching the President will be introduced into the House on Monday next, by Mr. Ashley, of Ohio, with every prospect of success. The President was notified, to-day, of the fact, and expressed himself ready for trial.

A special from this city says that the Sherman-Campbell mission to Mexico is abandoned. Campbell receives leave to visit his home in Ohio. Sherman will be here next week.

The U. S. Steamer Don is to leave Annapolis on a secret mission, having on board Admiral Porter and Hon. F. W. Seward, Assistant Secretary of State. Its destination is believed to be to establish the national authority on some Island lately discovered. It is not true that Gen. Grant accompanies the mission.

The Arkansas delegation will visit the President to-morrow.

State Legislatures.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, Jan. 2.

The Governor, speaking of the Constitutional Amendment, says that it contains provisions which, in the wisdom of the National Legislature, are necessary to secure permanent peace throughout the country, and correct palpable evils existing in the States lately in rebellion. He is not without hope that the Southern States will reconsider its rejection.

Southern Methodist Church.

RICHMOND, Jan. 3.

Returns from 23 Conferences show that the proposition to change the name of the M. E. Church is defeated, and also indicate the probable defeat of lay representation.

Congress and Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.

In the House, Mr. Stevens called up his bill reorganizing the Southern States. In his speech, he says the late decision of the Supreme Court he would not say was infamous, but it was more dangerous than the Dred Scott decision. Congress must do something to protect loyal citizens against the barbarians of the South. He denounced Dr. Watson, of Virginia, as an infamous murderer, who was released under that decision. Still speaking.

Judge Grier was not able to be in attendance on the Supreme Court to day. The decision upon the test oath is again postponed.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The Louisville Journal says: "The testimonials which Dr. Gardner presents to the public could never have been obtained, except by the display of great skill and learning in his profession. One thing especially commendable in the Doctor's practice is, that he will not attempt an incurable disease for the sake of a fee, but frankly tells the patient whether he can be cured or not. We cheerfully recommend Dr. Gardner to the attention of all our friends who may be suffering from diseases of the eye or ear.

The Richmond Times says: We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Gardner is the most scientific and successful eye and ear Surgeon in this country.

"We feel justified in recommending Doctor Gardner to those suffering from diseases of the eye and ear."—Richmond Whig.

"We can safely and cordially recommend Dr. Gardner, who will fulfill all he undertakes to perform."—Baltimore Clipper.

The New Orleans True Delta says: "We can safely recommend Dr. Gardner as a successful operator on the eye and ear. He will not undertake to treat a case unless a cure can be effected.

The Wheeling Register says: "Dr. Gardner is one of the most successful Oculists and Aurists in the country. We advise those suffering from the diseases of the eye and ear to consult him."

SOMETHING NEW

UNDER THE SUN.

A New Era In Medicine

☞ Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞ Let all who have been given up by Doctor and spoken of as incurable, read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts and can have faith in evidence, read the following:

Know all men by these presents, That on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-Six, personally came Joseph Haydock to me, known as such, and being duly sworn, deposed as follows: That he is the sole general agent for the United States, and dependencies thereof, for preparations or medicines known as MAGGIEL'S PILLS and SALVE, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMEITER,
L. S. Notary Public,
Wall Street, New York.

June 1, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss.

JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
New York, April 7, 1865. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me by him about eight weeks after the accident.

New York, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder; I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal; I tried Maggiel's Salve, and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true, and any body can now see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2nd Avenue.

J. HARDY,
119 Geerick Street.

Extract from Various Letters:

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvelous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears and the noise left."

"Send me two boxes; I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar; your price is twenty-five cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Salve by return mail."

I have over 200 such Testimonals.

As this, but want of space compels me to conclude

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Proprietor.

Daniel O'Connell and the Scold.

We have more than once given place to the following, but it is so rich that we cannot resist the temptation to reproduce it:

One of the drollest scenes of virtuperation that Daniel O'Connell, the celebrated Irish orator and agitator, ever figured in, took place in the early part of his life. Not long after he was called to the bar, his character and peculiar talents received rapid recognition from all who were casually acquainted with him. His talent for virtuperative language was perceived, and by some he was, even in those days, considered matchless as a scold. However, there was at that time in Dublin a certain woman, Biddy Moriarty, who had a huckster's stall on one end of the quay, nearly opposite the Four Courts.—She was a virago of the first order, very able with her tongue. From one end of Dublin to the other she was notorious for the powers of abuse; and even in the provinces Mrs. Moriarty's language had passed into currency.

The dictionary of Dublin slang has been considerably enlarged by her, and her volubleness had almost become proverbial. Some of O'Connell's friends, however, thought he could beat her at the use of her own weapons. Of this, however, he had some doubt himself, when he had listened once or twice to some minor specimens of her billingsgate. It was mooted once whether the young Kerry barrister could encounter her, and some of the company, (in O'Connell's presence,) rather ridiculed the idea of his being able to meet the famous Madame Moriarty. O'Connell never liked the idea of being put down, and confessed his readiness to encounter her and even backed himself for the match.—Bets were offered and taken; and it was decided that the matter should come off at once.

The party adjourned to the huckster's stand, and there was the owner herself, superintending the sale of her small wares.

O'Connell was very confident of success. He had laid a very ingenious plan for overcoming her, and with all the anxiety of an ardent experimentalist, waited to put it in practice. At this time O'Connell's own party and the loungers about the place formed an audience quite sufficient to rouse Mrs. Moriarty, on public provocation, to a due sense of her powers. O'Connell commenced the attack by saying:

"What's the price of this walking stick, Mrs. What's-your name?"

"Moriarty, sir, is my name, and a good one it is too, and what have ye to say agin it? And one and a sixpence is the price of the stick.—Troth, it's cheap as dirt, so it is."

"One and a sixpence for such a walking-stick! Whew! Why you are no better than an impostor, to ask one and a sixpence for what only cost two pence."

"Two pence, your grandmother," relied Mrs. Biddy. "Do you mean to say that it's cheating the people I am! Imposter indeed."

"Ay, imposter; and it's that I call you to your teeth," replied O'Connell.

"Come, cut your stick, you cantankerous jackanapes."

"Keep a civil tongue in your head, you old diagonal," replied O'Connell, calmly.

"Stop your jaw, you pug-nosed badger; or, by this and that," cried Mrs. Moriarty, "I'll make you go quicker than you came."

"Don't be in a passion, my old radius, anger will only wrinkle your beauty."

"By hokey, if you say another word of impudence, I'll tan your dusty hide, you beastly common scrub; and sorrry I'll be to spoil my fist with your carcass."

"Whey, boys! what a passion old Biddy's in; I protest, as I am a gentleman."

"Jintleman! jintleman! The like of you a jintleman! Wisha, by\gor, that bangs Banaghar. Why, you potato-faced pippin sneezer, where did a Madagascar monkey like you pick up enough common Christian decency to hide your Kerry brogue?"

"Easy, now," cried O'Connell, with imperturbable good humor, "don't choke yourself with fine language, you old whisky drinking parallelogram."

"What's that you call me, you dirty, murthering villian?" roared Mrs. Morairty, stung into fury.

"I call you," answered O'Connell, "a parallelogram, and a Dublin judge or jurywould say it was no libel to call you so."

"Oh, tare and ouns! Oh, holy Biddy! that an honest woman like me should be called a party belly grums! you rascally gallows-bird; you cowardly, sneaking plate-licking blaggard!"

"Oh, not you, indeed!" retorted O'Connell.

"Why, I suppose you'll deny that you keep a hypothenuse in your house!"

"It's a lie for you, you bloody robber! I never had such a thing in my house, you bloody thief!"

"Why, all your neighbors know very well that you not only keep a hypothenuse, but that you have two diameters locked up in your garret, and that you go to walk with them every Sunday, you heartless old heptagon."

"Oh! hear that, ye saints in glory! Oh! that's bad language for a fellow who wants to pass himself off for a jintleman. May the devil fly away with you, you micher from Munster, and bake celery sauce from your rotten limbs."

"Ah, you can't deny the charge, you miserable submultiple of a duplicate fraction!"

"Go rinse your mouth in the Liffy, you nasty tickle pitcher. After all the bad words you speak it ought to be filthier than your face, you dirty chicken of Belzebub."

"Rinse your mouth, you wicked old polygon. To the deuce I pitch you, you blustering intersection of stinking superfluities."

"You saucy tinker's apprentice, if you don't cease your jaw, I'll—"

But here she gasped for breath, unable to hawk up any more words, for the last volley of O'Connell had nearly knocked the wind out of her.

"Whilst I have a tongue I'll abuse you, you most inimitable periphery. Look at her, boys—there she stands—a convicted perpendicular in petticoat! There's contamination in her circumference, and she trembles with guilt down the extremity of her corollaries. Ah! you're found out, you rectilineal antecedent and equiangular old hag! 'Tis you the devil will fly away with, you porter swiping similitude of a bisection of a vortex."

Overwhelmned with this torrent of language, Mrs. Moriarty was silenced. Catching up a sauce-pan, she was aiming it at O'Connell's head, when he very prudently made a timely retreat.

"You have won the wager, O'Connell," cried the men who proposed the contest. "Here's your bet."

a graduate, and for fifteen years, (up to the commencement of the war) a

The course of the Institution is that of the Virginia Military Institute, and is such as to make the Academy a great

A school of theoretical and applied science, in which Languages and Literature also receive a due share of attention. The discipline and instructions are on a Complete Military Basis.

The Faculty is for the present organized as follows:

Professor of Mathematics, Civil and Military Engineering, Architecture, Topographical and Industrial Drawing, and Assistant Instructor of Infantry tactics, Maj. W. A. Candidates for admission as Cadets are advised to come without delay. Until the 1st. of February next, all those Cadets present at the Academy, will be pushed forward in their studies irrespective of classes, so as to enable them, at that time, to enter the most advanced classes for which they may be found qualified.
